Success was ensured by the devotion and efforts of the Board of Trustees. While the members were from surrounding counties, they joined together as a league of professionals that contributed their unique ideas and perspectives. All seventeen members dedicated themselves not only to the improvement of the campus, but also to that of the community. As primary leaders in business, law, industry, and education, the Board of Trustees guaranteed the institution came out on top.

Evidence of the trustees' hard work was present in the recognition as a "2018 Great College to Work For" for the second time by The Chronicle of Higher Education. The Great Colleges to Work For survey was one of the largest and most comprehensive workplace studies in higher education. The results, released in The Chronicle's 11th annual report on The Academic Workplace, were based on a survey of 253 schools. Of these 253 institutions, only 84 earned this achievement. The Board of Trustees was extremely proud to have gained such an honorable recognition. This accomplishment could not have been obtained without the diligent efforts of the Board, and this status reflected on their unified endeavors to improve the college.
